Central valley

The Central Valley is located between the Sierra Nevada and Coastal Mountains. Northern Valley is the Sacramento river Valley Southern Valley is the San Joaquin River Valley. One of the most productive agricultural (farming) regions in the world!! It has fertile soil that has

DessertRegion

California has lots of desert. Deserts have very little rainfall. Death valley is a very dry and sandy desert. Also Deserts are way hotter than 100 Fahrenheit. Did you know that cacti survive the desert by storing water in there trunk when there's rainfall . A lot of animals survive in the desert like coyotes.

Mountain Region

Mountains can be very high. Yosemite is a well known spot in California. It's all known for its ferocious forest, mirror like rivers and fast flowing waterfalls. Lake Tahoe and Big bear are all high elevation and that's why they get the most snowfall and that's why it attracts so many skiers and snowboarders. It's quite cold in the winter but it gets warm in summertime.
